Unless otherwise noted, stamps are identified by their Scott Catalogue numbers and forgeries are identified by their Lyons Identifier type. Scott numbers in parenthesis under listed forgeries represent approximately what stamp the forgery is attempting to imitate.

FISHER'S EXPRESS

COMPANY HISTORY

Fisher's Express delivered packages between Stoughton and Boston, Massachusetts. The company was organized in the early 1870s, and ran into the mid 1890s.

One news article about the company detailed how Fisher's Express carried questionable packages. Illegal liquor was confiscated from the Fisher's express office in 1884. The alcohol was shipped via the express, who claimed they did not know what was in the packages.

ARTICLE PUBLISHED IN THE BOSTON JOURNAL JANUARY 14, 1884

Stone hton.

Miss Jessie Lander, a lady employed at French & Ward a mill at West Stoughton, fell upon the ice a week ago, receiving internal injuries that caused her death Saturday night.

The police have again balked the liquor dealers of Stoughton and forced them to devise some new means to carry on their illegal traffic. It seems that their latest move was to have their liquors brought from Boston by express and stored in the capress office. Its police claim that the several dislers had keys to this storehouse and went dally to obtain a small supply, which they carried around with them in fizsks. A short time ago the police seized several gallons of hard liquor at Fisher's Expressoffice, and notified the proprietor to appear before the court. The hearing has been appointed for January 2d. Mr. Fisher intends to contest the case. It is understood that he claims that as a common carrier he was object for transportation, and that his act in storing the go, is was not illegal, in that he was not supposed to know the contents of the cases.
